Big News: You No Longer Need the Printed Password Handout to Access Library Databases

The library subscribes to more than 3 dozen databases bringing the latest and most authoritative information to LBCC students, faculty, and staff. You will find a complete list online at http://lib.lbcc.edu/databases.html

Until now, one had to know and enter a unique user id and password for each database. These passwords were on a printed handout available at the library upon presentation of proof of current LBCC registration or employment.

The good news is that from now on validated users (i.e. current students and employees) can access all of these databases by entering a single easy-to-remember user id and password:

- Students enter their campus ID number and their last name
- Faculty and staff enter their network ID and password (the same information used to log in to campus e-mail accounts); those who don’t yet have one can contact ACIT for instructions and assistance

To test drive the new login system point your browser to the library home page http://lib.lbcc.edu/ click on “articles and databases” on the left side of the screen, then “off-campus access” on the right side of screen, and follow the directions to log in.
